Year 3 Mind It: Lesson 2

Think Before You Type and Share

Background:

We have previously discussed the dangers of sharing personal information online, such as our addresses or our phone numbers. We should also be careful with sharing our personal views and opinions online especially if they are likely to cause upset to someone else or if they are to cause trouble for us. It's important that children realise that once something is shared online it has the power of remaining there for a very long time. Deleting information will remove it from where we placed it but it could have been shared or captured before that. Personal opinions and views or emotions should be expressed with caution over the internet. If we are upset or angry by someone or something online, we should always stop and think before we type and share.

Key Concepts	1. We should be careful with all types of information that we share online.
	2. We should refrain from sharing our personal opinions if they are going to cause upset.
	3. We should take the time to stop and think before we type and share.
Badge Descriptors	• I know that I should be careful with the information I share online.
	• I know that I should keep some of my personal opinions to myself.
	• I know I should stop and think before I type and share.

Glossary
clap	This is Natterhub's way of showing that you approve of, enjoy or agree with a post. Pupils can clap anything which another user has written or shared on Natterhub.
online	When you are working connected to the internet, usually via a website, or on devices such as computers, tablets and mobile phones.
personal information	Information about you that identifies you. This includes: name, address, date of birth, phone number, names of parents, school name, height/weight.