People was screaming there hearts out. I didn't ^{know} ~~know~~ what to do with my self. It was pitch black and all that I could see was the boiling, sizzling of the fires, flames. The wind was swirling around making the fire was I was running I was shouting as loud as I could to get there ^{clencher} ~~clencher~~ HELP! HELP! HELP! It was making the sound crackling as it was ~~clencher~~ ^{clencher} house to house.

It was doing death to trees and burning houses to there death. The fire was made by a bakery. They tried putting it out with gun powder but it didn't make it any better. It was really dark but the fire was so still there. The fire was way to powerful for any body in the city. My house luckily was still there I got in went into my bedroom and I prayed to god that the fire would go away so we could do what we did always before. They tried to find a home so we kindly destroyed the fire.

Dear diary -

There was a terrible fire out side my window. I said to my maid to pack up all of my best belongs well I went to dig a hole to put my cheese and wine in. Everybody is saying that it started on pudding lane in Thomas Farthings bakery. Today I have just been to meet prince Charles the second to tell him about the fire and I told him a idea of mine to stop the fire spreading. My idea was to blow up houses and he loved my idea but the mayor did not what to do he was just a weak. I could see buildings on fire and black smoke was in the sky the hole city was just dark except from the fire it was the only thing bright in the city. I could smell burning wood and sweet smoke. I could hear people are shouting and screaming and babies crying also busy sounds horses neighing and wood cracking. I could touch warm dust hot water and personal possessions. My dad went to go and help put the fire out. There was people trying to escape on the river Thames people where using boats to escape.
